Bowie Mayor Tim Adams Announces Candidacy for Comptroller of Maryland

Renowned tech CEO, philanthropist vows to work for accountability, justice and change

BOWIE, Md. (March 30, 2021)—Pledging to serve taxpayers and small businesses across the state as an agent of fiscal responsibility, economic justice and social change, Bowie Mayor and acclaimed technology entrepreneur Tim Adams today declared his candidacy to become the 34th Comptroller of Maryland.

Adams, 62, would be the first Black Comptroller in state history. He would also become the first paraplegic to ever hold statewide office in Maryland.

"My life has been the embodiment of the very best possibilities of our country and state, and I am running to help provide every child in Maryland with the same opportunities for success and security that I've enjoyed," said Adams. "To do so, we must ensure that our tax dollars are invested wisely, everyone pays their fair share, and our business climate allows our small businesses and entrepreneurs to compete on a level playing field."

Adams announced his campaign today with a video that was produced and directed by Devine Mulvey Longabaugh, a prominent Democratic media consulting firm based in Washington, DC. The 2:35 piece, titled "Let's Roll," recaptures landmark moments in Adams' personal and professional journey. It features Timothy Adams, Jr., a drama major at New York University, in scenes depicting his father's earlier years.

In declaring his candidacy, Adams promised to use the power of his office to help change a business and economic climate he has frequently characterized as "adrift." As one of three votes on Maryland's Board of Public Works, which approves most state contracts greater than $200,000, he promised to hold agencies accountable for procurement transparency, commitment to open bid competition, and compliance with Maryland's Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) laws.

"For all of our talk about so-called 'government transparency,' Maryland's procurement system is still weighted in favor of incumbent vendors and those with the best political connections," Adams said. "This works out perfectly well for a handful of Annapolis insiders, but not for the taxpayers or for those emerging entrepreneurs who can offer better services at lower costs."

Adams was elected in 2019 to serve as the first Black Mayor in the 138-year history of Bowie, Maryland. He is the Founder, President and Chief Executive Officer of Systems Application & Technologies, Inc. (SA-TECH). Headquartered in Prince George's County, SA-TECH provides technology-based services for America's national security sector. SA-TECH has secured a spot on The BE 100s—the list of the nation's largest black-owned businesses, as developed by BLACK ENTERPRISE magazine. It has also been recognized by the Washington Business Journal as one of the 10 leading minority-owned companies in the Greater Washington region.

Adams promised to use a blend of proven technology, data analytics and better laws to collect money that is lawfully owed to the State of Maryland.

"Our existing tax policies are geared to protect international corporations and appease special interests while imposing an even greater burden on struggling families, consumers and small businesses," said Adams.

In addition to endorsing the policy known as "Combined Reporting," which eliminates the ability of multistate corporations to avoid Maryland tax obligations by sheltering profits in other states, Adams pledged to sponsor legislation to recapture taxpayer subsidies from businesses that fail to deliver their intended results.

Adams received his Bachelor of Science degree from Xavier University and his

Md. Bill Would Publicize Monetary Settlement With Police

By JACOB STEINBERG
Capital News Service

Local law enforcement agencies could be required to submit an annual report detailing incidents that resulted in either a monetary settlement or judgment against a police officer to the Governor's Office of Crime Prevention, Youth and Victim Services.

HB1248, with sponsor Del. Alonzo T. Washington, D-Prince George's, passed the Maryland House of Delegates earlier this week.

The bill stipulates that on or before March 1, 2022, and every year thereafter law enforcement agencies would be required to submit the report detailing those incidents.

"What I came up with in this bill would directly increase the level of transparency on settlements and lawsuits for departments across the entire state," Washington said at a Feb. 23 House Judiciary Committee hearing.

"It's a huge benefit that we have more transparency," Washington told Capital News Service.

The report would include: the age, gender, ethnicity and race of both the officer and individual involved in each incident as well as the date, time and location of when it occurred.

Additionally, it would highlight the dates of when the civil action was filed, when it was resolved and the amount of settlement or judgment awarded to the plaintiff, according to the bill.

"I figured if we're having an issue in finding out where these numbers are, then other jurisdictions must be having the same issues as well," Washington added at the hearing.

Only civil complaints that have been finalized will be included, complaints that are still in the process of litigation aren't subject to be included in the data.

Upon receiving the report, the Governor's Office of Crime Prevention, Youth and Victim Services would be responsible for compiling all of the data and submitting an annual report to the General Assembly on or before June 30 each year.

Washington co-chaired a workgroup on police reform in Prince George's County at the same time the General Assembly convened a similar workgroup focused on addressing police reform, what has become a focal point during this legislative session.

In the House, the Police Reform and Accountability Workgroup, chaired by Del. Vanessa E. Atterbeary, D-Howard, convened from June to August discussing police reform initiatives.

"I sat on a task force that looked at policing in my own county and it took them months to get the information that we needed to be able to review how much spending on police-involved incidents in the county," Washington said.

In order to find that information, Washington and the police reform group in Prince George's county had to ask the county's Office of Law to compile all of the information on settlements and judgments filed against police.

Those workgroups placed a heavy emphasis on increasing both transparency and accountability in police departments throughout the state.

"The issue that we're having right now is we don't know how much is being paid to every settlement and case that occurs," Washington said.

At least $13 million in taxpayer money has been spent to settle claims lodged against the Gun Trace Task Force in Baltimore for several violations including being wrongfully searched or falsely arrested, according to the Baltimore Sun.

These annual reports would centralize all of the data in one location on the Governor's Office of Crime Prevention, Youth and Victim Services website.

Therefore, the information would be easier to access rather than it being disseminated through news agencies or spread out across the website's of several law enforcement agencies.

The Governor's Office of Crime Prevention, Youth and Victim Services did not respond to requests for information regarding the fiscal effect of the bill, according to a state legislative analysis.

"The governor will carefully review this bill should it reach his desk," Heather Epkins, communications director in the governor's coordinating offices told Capital News Service.

Proponents of the bill explained that this aspect of the bill would be beneficial as it would allow for taxpayers and legislators to quickly find the amount of money provided in these lawsuits.

"I believe the taxpayers need to know how much they're spending on police involved incidents that occur throughout the state, as a taxpayer there should be some transparency in that for the money that I send to the state or these local agencies so that we know actually what's happening," Washington said.

After passing the House of Delegates with a 119-16 vote, the bill has been referred to the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee with a hearing scheduled for March 31 at 1 p.m.

Alzheimer's Association to Host Free Screening of "Grandpa's Hands" on April 8

Event to include Q&A with film creator, discussion of warning signs

By CINDY SCHELHORN
Alzheimer's Association

MCLEAN, Va. (March 24, 2021)—The Alzheimer's Association National Capital Area Chapter will present a free screening of the film "Grandpa's Hands" on Thursday, April 8. The event will include a Q&A discussion with Darren Colston, creator of the film, and a discussion on the warning signs of Alzheimer's.

"Grandpa's Hands" is a short narrative film about Jackson, a young professional who makes a rare visit with his grandfather and struggles to reconnect due to his grandfather's dementia. The dementia echoes the pain of betrayal and racial discrimination. When Jackson's grandfather confronts an unwanted visitor, his past and present merge bringing Jackson along for an important lesson of love and respect.

"I'm excited to screen my film, "Grandpa's Hands", with Alzheimer's Association's National Capital Area Chapter," said Darren Colston, creator of the film. "I look forward to having a conversation with the community about the trials and triumphs of being a caretaker and family member of a loved one impacted by dementia and Alzheimer's disease."

"I wanted to show this film to spotlight the impact that Alzheimer's has on the individual, the family and the community," said Tara Davis-Rama, Diversity and Inclusion Program Manager with the Alzheimer's Association National Capital Area Chapter. "This film depicts the reality of a young man trying to balance his professional life while caring for his grandfather. I hope this film will highlight male caregivers as well as serve as an invitation to invite more young men to participate in Support Groups."

In addition to the film screening and Q&A session with Colston, the evening will feature a workshop and discussion on the warning signs of Alzheimer's. The workshop will start at 6 p.m. The film screening and Q&A with Colston will run from 7-8 p.m. The event is free. Registration is required. To register, visit alz.org/nca or call 800.272.3900.

The Alzheimer's Association leads the way to end Alzheimer's and all other dementia—by accelerating global research, driving risk reduction and early detection, and maximizing quality care and support. Prince George's Community College And Luminis Health Partner to Offer Covid-19 Vaccination Site

College essential staff and high-risk populations included in initial cohort

By COURTNEY DAVIS
Prince George's Community College

LARGO, Md. (March 25, 2021)—Prince George's Community College (PGCC) announced today its partnership with Luminis Health established to accelerate COVID-19 vaccine distribution for Prince George's County residents, placing the community on a path to recovery. In addition to serving as the vaccination site, Prince George's Community College provides logistics, security, and staffing services in support of the effort.

"In order to safely see family and friends again, we must work together to vaccinate as many people as we can," said Deneen Richmond, president of Luminis Health Doctors Community Medical Center. "This partnership between Luminis Health, Prince George's Community College, and Prince George's County is a great example of a community coming together to help one another."

"I want to express my gratitude to Dr. Falecia Williams, president of Prince George's Community College, and her team for hosting and providing logistics for these vaccination clinics. I am also grateful to the wonderful staff at Luminis Health for working passionately to vaccinate our neighbors from Prince George's County," Richmond added.

To date, Luminis Health has vaccinated 5,462 individuals at the Prince George's Community College site since February. High-risk populations, as defined in phase 1B, in addition to the College's essential faculty and staff, receive priority appointments. Approximately 222 Prince George's Community College staff were vaccinated during the latest clinics. As the state's vaccine supply increases, Luminis Health will offer expanded opportunities for county residents and employees to receive the vaccine.

"Activating an efficient and organized COVID-19 vaccination site with Luminis Health Doctors Community Medical Center has provided an incredible opportunity to serve the Prince George's County community," said Dr. Meloyde Batten-Mickens, acting director of Public Safety and director of Emergency Management. "Welcoming community members to our site has been uplifting, as we are directly helping to stop the spread, thereby increasing the number of Prince Georgians who are Proud to Be Protected."

To register for a vaccine appointment at the Prince George's Community College site through Luminis Health, visit <https://living.aahs.org/community-vaccine-clinics/>. For more information about the partnership between Prince George's Community College and Luminis Health, contact Courtney Davis, assistant director of public relations, at daviscl@pgcc.edu.

Candidacy from A1

M.B.A. from the University of New Orleans. He has been inducted into the Top 100 Minority Business Enterprise Hall of Fame for the Mid-Atlantic Region and, in 2013, was inducted into the Maryland Chamber of Commerce Hall of Fame.

Adams has also been recognized as one of the Top 100 African-American Leaders in America by the U.S. Black Chamber of Commerce and has been presented with both the Washington Business Journal's Minority Business Leader Award and The Daily Record's ICON Honors Award.

His record of civic engagement includes a successful tenure as Chairman of the Bowie State University Foundation and service to the Prince George's Community College Foundation, the Doctors Community Health Foundation, the Greater Maryland Health System, the Maryland Chamber of Commerce, the Prince George's Business Roundtable and the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. Adams resides in Bowie with his wife, The Honorable Sheila R. Tillerson-Adams; their children, Timothy, Jr., and Kayla; and their grandson, Nehemiah, child of his late daughter, Tiara.

Noting the role that education played in lifting him from childhood poverty and racial segregation in rural Louisiana, Adams sharply criticized Maryland's failure to provide all public school students with safe, healthy and modern school facilities.

"In the State of Maryland, it is just not acceptable to send children into buildings and classrooms that are literally falling apart," Adams said. "It is inhumane to expect teachers and children to work in buildings that are freezing in the cold months and sweltering in the warm months. And it is inexcusable that some children who do not have access to high-speed Internet are expected to produce the same test results as those children who do."

To restore a culture of oversight, Adams called for oversight of Maryland's Public School Construction Program to be restored to Maryland's Board of Public Works.

"Until we get our fiscal house in order and build a 21st century economy that offers opportunity to all Marylanders, we will not be able to sustain our investments in those priorities that matter to all of us," said Adams. "I have the experience to make a difference from the day I'm sworn in, and I look forward to sharing my values and vision for office in every corner of our state."

Resolution from A4

demarc against Asian Americans, we've seen a spike in hate crimes, violent assaults and discrimination targeting the AAPI community," said Senator Duckworth. "As the AAPI community continues to be attacked, I'm proud to introduce this important resolution with Senator Hirono to condemn all forms of anti-Asian sentiment, including those made worse by the COVID-19 outbreak."

A similar resolution was introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative Grace Meng (D-N.Y.) last month and now has 145 cosponsors.

"The answer to racism is never more racism; it is solidarity with others. It is up to each of us to call out those who would commit anti-Asian hate crimes, be it verbal or physical acts of xenophobia and bigotry. I thank Senators Hirono and Duckworth for introducing the Senate version of my House resolution condemning those hateful incidents," said Representative Meng.
